ESSAYS ON THE FLOATING MATTER IN THE AIR;

IN RELATION TO PUTREFACTION AND INFECTION. By JOHN TYNDALL, F.R.S.
12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The part of this work which most excites the admiration of the true man of science, and which will go farthest to increase the permanent reputation of its writer, is the record of the long series of observations contained in the memoir on the vitality of putrefactive organisms, first presented to the Royal Society and now republished. It would, indeed, be difficult to quote a better example of the method and the spirit with which a difficult investigation should be pursued, and of the qualities by which success is ultimately attained."—London Spectator.

II.;

ANTS, BEES, AND WASPS.

A RECORD OF OBSERVATIONS ON THE HABITS OF THE SOCIAL HYMENOPTERA. By Sir JOHN LUBBOCK, Bart., M.P., F.R.S., etc., author of "Origin of Civilization, and the Primitive Condition of Man," etc., etc. With Illustrations and Colored Plates. "International Scientific Series." 12mo, cloth, $2.

"This volume contains the record of various experiments made with ants, bees, and wasps during the last ten years, with a view to test their mental condition and powers of sense. The principal point in which Sir John's mode of experiment differs from those of Huber, Forel, McCook, and others, is that he has carefully watched and marked particular insects, and has had their nests under observation for long periods—one of his ants' nests having been under constant inspection ever since 1874. His observations are made principally upon ants because they show more power and flexibility of mind, and the value of his studies is that they belong to the department of original research."

CAMPS IN THE ROCKIES:

Being a Narrative of Life on the Frontier, and Sport in the Rocky Mountains, with an Account of the Cattle Ranches of the West. By WILLIAM A. BAILLIE-GROHMAN, author of "Tyrol and the Tyrolese," "Gaddings with a Primitive People," etc. With an original map, based on the most recent U. S. Government Survey. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.75.

It is not often that there appears a volume of hunting adventures comparable to "Camps in the Rockies." The fresh and interesting nature of the narrative, together with a charming style and an inexhaustible fund of spirits, render it one of the most enjoyable accounts of frontier life that have been penned. Besides there is something genuine about the book in its utter freedom from the usual "tall talk" of Western travellers and in the transparent candor of the author in recounting his adventures and exploits. He has not given us a jumble of first impressions, his book is the result of three or four extended excursions through the wildest and most romantic parts of our Western Territories preceded by long experience of Alpine climbing and deer-stalking. There is also much valuable information respecting the topography, natural history, and resources of the far West.

II.

HELEN OF TROY.

By ANDREW LANG, author of "Ballades in Blue China." 1 vol., 16mo, $1.25.

Mr. Lang's Ballades led a well-known critic to say: "They are so perfect and yet turned with so much ease that their artificer seems to be keeping studiously within certain bounds, and able to proffer something more heroic if he cares to make the effort." Helen of Troy is this first serious revelation of its author's powers; and it does something more than justify Mr. Stedman's conjecture. Lovers of William Morris will find proof here that there is another poet—and not an imitator—who holds the key to the same world.

That Mr. Lang treats the story of Helen in a new spirit is least important than the exquisite beauty of his poems but his interpretation of her acts and motives is curiously noteworthy.

WESTMINSTER SERMONS.

By ARTHUR PENRHYN STANLEY, D.D., late Dean of Westminster. 1 vol., crown 8vo, $2.50.

"Dean Stanley if not a man of genius, interpreted the events of his time so much through the light of an historical imagination, that these sermons take on a special character, and are great because they give voice on special occasions, not only to the Dean's convictions, but to the almost unanimous feelings of a great people."—Standard of the Cross.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have just issued a neat little volume of a devotional and contemplative character, entitled "Here and There a Leaf," by Louise Heywood Reynolds.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will issue this week W. A. Baillie-Grohman's "Camps in the Rockies," described in our last week's issue, and Andrew Lang's new volume, entitled "Helen of Troy."

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have just issued "Two Days," by W. Newport, a love story of which a boy of fourteen and a girl of ten are the principals. The volume is unique, both as to contents and get-up.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY will have ready in about a week another of their popular "Model Libraries." It will be called "Model Library, No. 4," and will contain 50 volumes for the infant class in Sunday-school.

LEE & SHEPARD will issue on the 1st of July, "Bright Days in the Old Plantation Time," by Mary Ross Banks. The author, a well-known lady of Georgia, originally intended these sketches—bright pictures of old-time Southern life—for the edification of her family, and for this reasons one of the charms of the volume is its naturalness. The volume has been appropriately illustrated by James H. Moser.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just issued the second volume of The Literary Life series, comprising "Pen-Pictures of Modern Authors," "The Science of Ethics," by Leslie Stephen; "The Psychology of the Salem Witchcraft of 1692, and its practical applications to our own time," by Dr. George M. Beard; and the "Experimental Method in Medical Science," being the second course of the Cartwright lectures delivered by Dr. John C. Dalton.

CASELL, PETTER, GALPIN & Co. announce that they are nearly ready with their publications for the fall trade. They have added this season over 100 new volumes, many of which are by American authors, and which cover a wide range in the field of literature—from the "wee" baby's book to the sumptuous art volume. Their line of juveniles is exceptionally full and bids fair to excel anything ever before issued by this house. Their publications of former years, too, have been improved, and, with new bindings and other attractive features, have been made as good as new.

D. APPLETON & Co. issue this week "Essays on the Floating Matter in the Air," in relation to putrefaction and infection, by John Tyndall; "Ants, Bees, and Wasps," a record of observations on the habits of the social hymenoptera, by Sir John Lubbock, who gives in this volume a record of various experiments made with ants, bees, and wasps, during the last ten years, with a view to test their mental condition and powers of sense. They have also issued new editions of their excellent "Dictionary of New York and Vicinity," and of "New York Illustrated."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish this week the "Life of Thoreau," the third volume in the series of American Men of Letters, written by F. B. Sanborn, who knew Thoreau intimately, and admired him heartily; the fifth volume of Björnson's novels, including "The Bridal March and other Stories," with four illustrations; a new edition of Severance's Harvard story, entitled "Hammersmith," reduced in price from $2 to $1.50; and the Hawthorne Index in a volume uniform with the Fireside Edition of Hawthorne's works. Next week they will probably publish Mr. Longfellow's last volume, "In the Harbor," which will contain quite a number of poems never before printed; "Two Hard Cases," a description of Guiteau and another hard case, by Dr. W. W. Godding, Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane; "In the Saddle," a collection of horseback poems, which ought to have a decided charm for the multitude of summer readers; and a new edition of "Mabel Vaughn," by Miss Cummins, the author of "The Lamplighter." This last-named work had a great popularity when it was first published, but has for years been out of print, and a new generation of readers will doubtless welcome it heartily.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

In the August Harper's, Col. Higginson will begin a series of papers which will constitute a continuous history of the United States, from "The First Americans" down to the close of President Jackson's Administration. Mr. Julian Hawthorne has written a striking war-story, called "A Rebel," for the same number.

Our Continent begins its second volume with a change of form, and will appear hereafter as a 32-page quarto, a shape much better adapted to the magazine character of the publication, and for the display of fine illustrations, than was the larger page previously used. The literary contents are not diminished, for the pages, while they are reduced to one half the former size, are doubled in number. Indeed, the amount of reading matter is rather increased, for the advertisements are now printed separately, in addition to the full 32 pages of matter. The cover is restored, and the publication now appears as a handsome magazine, a trifle larger than the monthlies, and containing in its fifty-two numbers annually about one third more matter than the largest of them. It looks now like what its conductors say they propose to offer to the public: "An illustrated magazine on the instalment plan, with serial stories coming once a week instead of once a month, contents and illustrations to be furnished by the best available talent the country affords."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; those in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A. Augustus; B. Benjamin; C. Charles; D. David; E. Edward; F. Frederic; G. George; H. Henry; I. Isaac; J. John; L. Louis; N. Nicholas; P. Peter; R. Richard; S. Samuel; T. Thomas; W. William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); TL. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights. Where figure instead of letter symbols are used, the record is from publisher's designation, and not measurement.

Imported books are marked with an asterisk; authors' and subscription books, or books published at net prices, with two asterisks; educational books published at "wholesale" prices, with a dagger.

Mr. Hale has extended the reading matter, especially in chapters relating to Egyptian mythology, Brahminism, Buddhism, etc., and also added to Mr. Bulfinch's numerous citations passages from Longfellow, Lovell, Bulwer, W. and L. Mozley, Rev. T. Reminiscences, chiefly of Oriel College and the Oxford movement. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1882. 2 v., 26+450; 26+448 p. D. cl., $3.

The Oxford movement was not only one of the most important in the religious history of England, but so many famous men were conspicuous in it, that it had a remarkable personal as well as historic interest. Newman, Pusey, Keble and many other notable men figure in Mr. Mozley's engaging "Reminiscences," which are full of anecdotes and recollections that will be read with nearly as great zest in America as in England. Mr. Mozley was for years one of the leading writers on the London Times, and his book is crowded with interesting facts and glimpses of interesting people.

Nadal, E. S. Essays at home and elsewhere. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1882. 8+281 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"These have mostly been written for English and American magazines, in which form of publication several have attracted more than ordinary attention. One of these, entitled 'Thackeray's relations to English society,' contributed to Scribner's Monthly, will be remembered for the new view it took of Thackeray's character. It affords a key to Mr. Nadal's manner, which is not only fresh in its literary style, but is individual and independent in its views of people and of topics discussed. The book is a very readable one, and has the merit of thoughtfulness much beyond that of the conventional essay writer. It begins with an agreeable paper on 'The old Boston Road,' and has articles devoted to 'Artemus Ward,' 'Byron,' 'Matthew Arnold,' 'William Cullen Bryant,' 'The conditions of dandyism,' 'Newspaper literary criticism,' etc."—Boston Gazette.

Newport, W. Two days. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1882. 2+73 p. S. (Hammock stories.) cl., 60 c.

This purports to be—and apparently is—the two days' romance of a boy of fourteen at a seaside resort, in his alternations of happiness and despair while undergoing a brief but acute attack of "first love" with a merry little maid of ten. The chapter-titles give the thread of the story: Morning on the pier; Dora and dinner; Altogether unhappy; Boy-fun; Dora and I; The lighthouse; The tea-table; The dance; Good-night to Dora. Some local allusions would seem to point to Block Island as the scene.

This is a popular account of the English writers who lived between the years 1790 and 1825, and of their works; each chapter is followed by a bibliography. Index. The [London] Academy says of it: "In Mrs. Olipphant's three volumes a great deal of information is dexterously conveyed; the biographical portions run on in an easy, informal narrative; the writer's sympathies are neither dull nor narrow; her literary judgments are in general those of cultivated good sense; she is never pretentious nor unreal; her style is lively and unaffected. Everywhere one finds the work of a practised pen." "Few were critical students could have vitalized their portraits in the way that hers are vitalized, and her bright insight into character and her knowledge of human life are most refreshing in this department of literature."—The Athenæum.

"Here is a new and genuine poetic voice, a veritable and valuable addition to the choir of American singers. . . . Both in the matter and style of her verse she is as strongly individual as Mrs. Browning herself, whom alone to us she recalls, and that only because in each case an intense feminine nature and character are palpable."—Buffalo Daily Courier.

Forms a third and revised edition of the author's "Social science and national economy," published in 1875. Prof. Thompson believes in protection to American industry. He makes his appeal to history in defense of that policy, aiming to show that wherever a weaker or less advanced country has practised free trade with one more powerful or richer, the former has lost its industries as well as its money, and has become economically dependent on the latter. The method of the book is historical.

Begins with a collection of amusing and interesting anecdotes, dialogues and short stories in English, with the Spanish text on the opposite page. After this comes a story without the English text, but with translations at the bottom of page, of the phrases and idioms. Following are a vocabulary, table of familiar phrases, the numbers, and a list of all the irregular verbs in the Spanish language.

Ward, Adolphus W. [Charles] Dickens. N. Y., Harper, 1882. 8+222 p. D. (English men of letters.) cl., 75 c.

The biographical portion of this essay is based upon Forster's "Life of Charles Dickens," and the three volumes of letters collected by Dickens' eldest daughter and his sister-in-law. By the permission of Mrs. Forster, Mr. Sketchley enabled the author to supplement the records of Dickens' life in the period 1838-41, from a hitherto unpublished source, a series of brief entries by him in four volumes of "The law and commercial daily remembrancer" for those years. He also acknowledges himself deeply indebted to Mr. R. H. Shepherd's "Bibliography of Dickens."

Woolson, Constance Fenimore. Anne: a novel; il. by C. S. Reinhart. N. Y., Harper, 1882. 4+540 p. S. cl., $1.25.

This novel in its course through Harper's Magazine during the past year attracted more than ordinary attention from novel-readers and critics. The N. Y. Tribune in criticising it said: "It proves the author's right to stand, without question, at the head of American women novelists." The heroine goes out into the world to support a small family of brothers and sisters, and has more than the average woman's share of adventure; as she is beautiful and noble, she gains the love of more than one man; the chief strength of the story is toward the end, when a murder occurs, and the wrong man is put in prison. "Anne" does some brave detective work, and succeeds in unearthing the murderer.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

IT is humiliating enough to know that the American publisher is stigmatized by civilized nations as the great unprincipled "pirate" and arch obstructor of a universal policy of justice to the literary producer. It is humiliating enough to see this proud country, which at the smallest provocation hauls up its flag of injured honor, appear utterly devoid of a sense of equity for that property which cannot exactly be weighed on the scales of the warehouse. This primitive condition of conscience which not only suffers, but actually aids and abets "piracy," and, pro bono publico, robs the poor and helpless foreign author, is, we say, humiliating enough. But should in addition to this lawfully committed wrong the unlawful attempt be made to lay hands on that home property, which even the illiterate legislators of this country have conceded to the author; should it be made a practice not only to accept and fill, but actually to seek, by printed circular and price-list, orders for the mailing of American cheap reprints of English copyright works, and to use for the traffic the very mails of England, then the humiliation would become positive disgrace and unbearable. But thanks to the facts in the case, which is the cause of this preamble, it may still be claimed that as a nation or profession we have not quite come to this. Without any more evidence than the existence of a circular, and the personal acknowledgment by its author that it has, for the purpose implied, been sent to England, we feel safe in assuring our English brethren that such indiscreet and foolish practice is countenanced by none of the American publishers. We take it for granted, that neither of the two houses, whose lists in this instance have been misused, are as yet even aware of the existence of such circular, unless it has just been brought to their notice as it has to ours. Let us hope that this is altogether a solitary case, and as such it has no national significance whatever. Its astute originator happens to be a well-known German importer and publisher of German books. And let us add that his long and good standing and the exceptionally good work he has done and is doing within his own legitimate province, entitle him, on moral grounds, to the benefit of the doubt. The scheme has evidently been the outcome of an overworked brain, which in an unguarded moment has proved to be rather erratic than culpable. Should, however, the disreputable practice find some equally deluded imitators, the British authorities have it in their own hands to make short work of such unlawful use of their mails.

WHENEVER a holiday falls upon a Tuesday the much-enduring clerk turns imploring eyes toward the private office, and, halting between anticipation and anxiety, hopes for the concession of Monday as an extra holiday. The coming of the "Fourth" this year awakens these anxious yearnings and the opportunity presents itself to employers to give their employees an extended breathing spell from Saturday afternoon to Wednesday morning without detriment or loss to their business. Several branches of business have already decided to remain closed on Monday, July 3, and a similar action by the book-trade would bring pleasure to many faithful clerks who would appreciate the chance for an extra "outing."

THE STOWE GARDEN PARTY.

The Garden Party by which Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. sought to honor the seventieth birthday of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe was given, as announced, at "The Elms," Ex-Gov. Claflin's beautiful residence in Newtonville, Mass. The Boston daily press has given full and detailed accounts of the festivities, and the warm and kindly words spoken were the tributes of friendly co-laborers to the worth and work of a busy life. The Boston Advertiser says: It was by invitation of the publishing house of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and under their auspices, that the guests assembled. For the third time has this house honored the seventieth birthday of a leading American author—in the cases of Dr. Holmes, Mr. Whitier, and now of Mrs. Stowe. Less formal and more social than the previous celebrations, this of yesterday passed off most satisfactorily. According to some books of reference, Mrs. Stowe is at the completion of her seventieth year. She quietly informs her publishers, however, that she is more than a year older than that, so the congratulations of yesterday were not exactly synchronous with the birthday upon which they are supposed to fall. Mrs. Stowe came to Boston on Monday, and has been at Mr. Claflin's ever since. For a time after the party she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson of Commonwealth avenue.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Gentlemen: Let me invite your attention to some considerations which may possibly give a better view of the value of mutual insurance, and increase your appreciation of the claims of our organization upon its membership.

The first important point is the assertion so frequently made, that the death rate will increase so fast in mutual associations, after a lapse of years, as to involve those who live to an advanced age in heavy expenditures, equalling or exceeding the premiums of life companies. Provided we do not make a strenuous effort to fill an association with old men and reject the younger ones, this cannot happen. Life insurance companies have been in existence forty years in this country, and have, as a rule, admitted older men to the benefits of insurance than the mutuals, and their average death rate for that period has been one per cent. If the mutuals have a natural accession to their ranks of men who have passed a medical examination, the conditions then being exactly the same as in the life companies, we cannot reasonably expect a higher death loss than they; and as we claim to furnish insurance at cost, with no loading for heavy expenses and accumulations, we are impregnable in our position of affording the greatest security at the lowest expense. The question of death rate is one of good management. By keeping a careful watch of the average age of our association we can control that perfectly. Our annual report to the Insurance Department at Albany showed an average age to be thirty-five years; by rejecting older men when too many apply, it can always be kept at this figure, which compares favorably with the strongest mutual organizations in the country. The Jewellers' League at the end of the third year of its existence had an average of 37.95, at the end of the fourth year 36.98, and at the end of the fifth 35.78. Its Board had 649 applications in 1881, and rejected 31, indicating a close attention on their part to this important subject.

Any institution, however well planned, will become unsafe under irresponsible management. In the large secret societies it is quite impossible for any member to know with certainty much of the character of those who govern either the State or National bodies. Hearsay and newspaper reports are not the most reliable means to assure us of the fidelity and integrity of those who manage the most sacred trust committed to man. Trade organizations have a simple machinery of government, giving every facility for placing in office men known, through personal acquaintance or business transactions, to almost every member; therefore we can regard our association as one likely to stand when the unwieldy secret orders, with doors open on every hand for the entrance of fraud and corruption, exist only in the anathemas of disappointed thousands. This may seem like extravagant language, but the mutual system of insurance is capable of great abuse, like most other human institutions; and by those who have looked over the loosely-drawn constitutions of these gigantic corporations these words will be regarded as just and temperate.

One grave defect of these large organizations is the distribution of the members of the governing body over a large area of territory. This is done to popularize them, and with the idea of strengthening them, but it is inimical to the strict supervision of their business and is an element of great weakness. In some associations even the Secretary and Treasurer reside hundreds of miles apart.

According to the constitution of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Association, the members of the Board must reside within such a distance of New York City, that they can, with convenience, attend every meeting.

Respecting our own association, the growth has been steady and encouraging during the past year, and we have only had two deaths in that time. Although we have paid three death claims, one was for a death occurring before last June. Our low death-rate and the low average age promise a most satisfactory future. The Jewellers' League, organized on the same basis, admitted over six hundred members last year, and there is no reason why we should not exceed this number the coming year. Our increase has been satisfactory, but it should be quickened by the earnest efforts of all the members. If each sends two applicants, we will have our thousand members before next June, and each member will have a thousand dollars insurance, low priced and first-class, held in trust not in the treasury of a large corporation, but in the pockets of those whose self-interest and good faith make the very best repository. After we have reached that point we can form another class from the same members, if they so wish, and secure another thousand dollars of insurance.

It is to the interest of each one to have our maximum number filled out at the very earliest date, and why it has not been accomplished can be attributed to a want of reflection as to the excellent character of our organization and the lack of opportunity to set forth its merits. Every member owes it to himself and the society to make this opportunity. Judging from the result of personal interviews with the New York members, who have in some cases gained us seven or eight applicants, a large addition will be made, if the members elsewhere will use their influence in our behalf.

Will you not make it your special order of business for some special day to secure two members? In no other way will it be done, for the association is never thought of except when an assessment card is received.

The Produce Exchange organized a similar association and filled it up in a few days. Why cannot our membership number be completed inside of one month?

We notice also in the report of the Jeweller's League that not one has been stricken from the list for non-payment of dues. Having embarked in this enterprise, it does seem that every member of our association ought to consider it a high duty to continue his membership, at least during our growing stage.

In conclusion let me say that the members of the board and the officers have, with great sacrifice of time, been diligent and earnest in forwarding the interests of the association, and their efforts should be strongly seconded by those of the members.

W. D. MYERS, Secretary.

ELECTION OF TRUSTEES.

The President addressed the association in a forcible and pertinent speech, urging specific and earnest work on the part of each member to increase the membership, after which he announced as the next order of business an election to fill the vacancies in the Board of Trustees caused by the expiration of the terms of office of Messrs. T. C. Dillingham, Andrew Geyer, Jos. F. Vogelius, J. B. Brigham, and O. M. Dunham.

Messrs. Briggs and Carroll were appointed tellers.

Mr. O. M. Dunham was nominated to fill his own vacancy. Thirty ballots were cast, of which Mr. Dunham received twenty-six. On motion the election was made unanimous.

To fill Mr. J. B. Brigham's vacancy, Messrs. Brigham and Buchler were nominated. Twenty-seven ballots were cast, of which Mr. Paul Buchler received twenty, whereupon Mr. Buchler's election was made unanimous.

Mr. Jos. F. Vogelius was nominated to fill his own vacancy and unanimously elected.

Mr. C. T. Dillingham received the nomination to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of his term of office, and was elected unanimously.

To fill Mr. Geyer's vacancy, he himself was nominated and received twenty-five votes out of twenty-seven. His election was made unanimous.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Mr. John Briggs and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this association are tendered to the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, Geyer's Stationer and the American Bookseller for their courtesy in publishing the proceedings of this association; also to Messrs. By Mr. Geyer and adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That the thanks of the association are tendered to Messrs. George A. Leavitt & Co., for the use of their hall for the annual meeting of the association.

Mr. Andrew Geyer offered a premium of $10 to any member (except the Secretary) bringing in the greatest number of applications at the two meetings of the board in July and August. This generous offer was accepted by the association. —Adjourned.

QUARITCH'S CATALOGUE OF PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

From the London Bookseller.

We hope it will be a long time first, but when the inevitable time arrives that the learned and accomplished author of these Catalogues joins the majority, readers of The Bookseller will see announced, in the sale of some distinguished bibliophile, "A Complete Set of Catalogues issued by the late Bernard Quaritch, bound in so many Volumes;" following this will be found two or three pages descriptive of the contents. A day after the sale The Times, in its usual style, will give a descriptive account of the excited state of the room, and announce the extraordinary price the Catalogues fetched, and, like Dean Swift, add, "Merely a bookseller's catalogue." There are catalogues and catalogues, and the part just issued—a volume of nearly 400 pages—is "A Catalogue of Periodical Literature, Journals and Transactions of Learned Societies, Issues from Government and Private Presses, Collections," etc., etc. It does not profess to be a complete list, but merely a list of those books which Mr. Quaritch has for sale. Yet, incomplete as it is, the volume contains an amazing amount of information, which even a learned bibliographer or librarian would find it difficult to put his finger upon elsewhere. Here, for instance, is a list of the publications of Sir Thomas Phillipps, issued from his private press—of the Surtees Society—of Tom Hearne's works—of the various antiquarian and archaeological societies—with notes, not only of the titles but of the contents of the books. We do not know the extent of Mr. Quaritch's staff, but it must be a very strong one to perform this work; but, strong as the staff may be, it is evidently well kept in hand by the strong master-mind of the chief. At some future time a set of Quaritch's Catalogues will be regarded as one of the most valuable collections in a library.

FOREIGN BIBLIOGRAPHIES.

From The Nation.

A French library journal has been started, to match the German Neuer Anzeiger of Petzholdt; the English Monthly Notes of the Library Association, and our Library Journal. A new series of Le Cabinet Historique, to be edited by M. Robert, of the Manuscript Department of the Bibliothèque Nationale, is to consist of three parts: First, all documents about the service and the organization of libraries and archives; second, extracts from archives and inventories or catalogues of manuscript in public or private libraries; third, a Courrier, or, as we should say letters "from our regular correspondent." The new journal evidently looks rather to the historical and bibliographical than to the practical part of bibliothetics, which naturally has less interest for the European mind than for us, since in long-established libraries most details are settled beyond the possibility of change. Another promised periodical (approximately bi-monthly) will devote itself not so much to the librarians as to the bibliomaniacs. The Guide du Libraire-antiquaire et du Bibliophile, edited by J. de Beauchamps and Ed. Rouveyre, undertakes to keep its public informed of the changes in the prices of rare books. In the rapid fluctuations of the present day any volume like Brunet's "Manuel de l'Amateur" is out of date almost as soon as published. Nothing but a periodical can give information sufficiently contemporary to be of much service. We have not for a long time met with a more impressive example of the pace at which we live nowadays. That the want of such information has been felt is shown by the fact that since the first announcement, in July, 1881, two thousand subscriptions to the new journal have been received. Its editors say that they have been preparing for the work for ten years—not consciously, we suppose—and have collected nearly 25,000 card-titles of the most important rare books, which they have kept constantly annotated with the prices obtained at auction sales or demanded by the second-hand booksellers, not neglecting bibliographical information and anecdotes concerning the literary or artistic value of the books. The Guide will be sold in separate livraisons, at three francs. Each twelve parts will make a volume, and be provided with an introduction and indexes of titles and of authors.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SARAH TYTLER is about to contribute a life of Marie Antoinette to the New Plutarch series.

PROFESSOR ROBERTSON SMITH is writing a series of articles on "The Place of the Old Testament in the Christian Church."

PRESIDENT D. C. GILMAN, of Johns Hopkins University, is engaged in writing a life of Albert Gallatin for the American Statesman series.

MR. AUBREY DE VERE has a new volume of poems almost ready. Its title will be "The Foray of Queen Meave and other Legends of Ireland's Heroic Age."

MR. J. A. DOYLE, Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, is engaged upon a work treating of "The English in America," with special reference to the States of Virginia, Maryland, and Carolinas.

MR. THOMAS HUGHES is engaged upon a memoir of the late Daniel Macmillan, who, with his younger brother, the present much respected head of the house, founded the firm of Macmillan & Co.

MRS. OLE BULL is writing a life of her husband, which Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish in the autumn. It cannot fail to be read with pleasure by the multitudes who have been delighted by the great Norwegian's wonderful violin.

MR. J. HENRY SHORTHOUSE, the author of "John Inglesant," will contribute an introductory essay on "George Herbert and his Verse," to a new edition of a fac-simile reprint of "The Temple," which Mr. T. Fisher Unwin has just published.

MR. RAYMOND L. NEWCOMB, who was the naturalist of the Jeannette Arctic expedition, says the N. Y. Tribune, "is now in Hartford, Conn., reading the proofs of the forthcoming 'History of the Jeannette Arctic Expedition.' The book will be fully illustrated, many of the engravings being from sketches made during the expedition."

MR. MONCURE D. CONWAY is engaged on a work embodying recollections of Emerson and his friends at Concord. The volume, which will be entitled "Concordia," and illustrated, relates especially to the time when Thoreau and Hawthorne were living in the village. Mr. Conway will also give the result of his studies of Emerson's works and observations on his influence as a religious teacher on American life and thought.

UNDER the heading of "Traits and Travesties, Social and Political," Mr. Lawrence Oliphant brings together some of his fugitive writings which have attracted much attention in periodicals of the day. The "Moral Reflections of a Japanese Traveller" caused a sensation when printed in the North American Review, and his "Tender Recollections of Irene Macgillcuddy," originally printed in Blackwood, was ascribed to an American clergyman.

MR. F. O. JONES, of Canaseraga, N. Y., is writing a new "Dictionary of Music and Musicians." A distinguishing feature of the work, says Good Literature, "will be the number of American topics, and the fulness with which they are treated. It will contain a complete list of musical terms; accounts of the principal music-publishing firms, musical instrument manufacturers, conservatories of music; descriptions of the most noted compositions; and biographies, more or less complete, of nearly 2000 musicians. Two alphabets will be used—one for the biographical portion and the other for the balance of the work. The pronunciation of proper names and musical terms will be given according to the best authorities."

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—F. H. Revell has renewed the lease of the store at 148 and 150 Madison Street, occupied by him for the last six years. He has remodelled and otherwise improved the place, and intends adding largely to his stock of school, theological, and miscellaneous books.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Simon Stoll, the well-known bookseller and stationer, has taken into partnership his assistant, Mr. John S. Thayer, Jr., who has been employed by him for the past six years, and will continue the book, stationery and news agency business at the old stand, No. 9 Spring Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Robert Burnet manufacturing stationer, and publisher of the "Ladies Angular Hand," has removed to No. 2 College Place, cor. Barclay Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

D. LOTHROP & Co. have in active preparation a subscription edition of Paul H. Hayne's poetical works.

ESTES & LAURIAT have become the sole publishers of Dr. Rosenthal's Meisterschaft System for French and German.

HALL & WHITING, Boston, have nearly ready a new George Eliot calendar for 1883, with an illuminated back designed by Ipsem, of Boston.

R. WORTHINGTON has been appointed receiver of the Colored Book Concern which has been doing business at 19 Clinton Place, N. Y. City. Mr. Worthington has filed the necessary bonds and has taken possession.

JOHN E. POTTER & Co. have just published Prof. Harrison's "French Syntax on the Basis of Edward Mätzner." Prof. Harrison has increased the value of the original work by the addition of new matter and the introduction of various improvements.

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co. announce in preparation a new edition of the works of Wm. H. Thomes, formerly issued by Lee & Shepard. Their latest publications, "A Sane Lunatic" and "Off the Rocks," have started off well, the latter being reported as already in its third edition.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH, referring to the reprint of his letter in the last issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, writes: "The Chicago Bookseller has made several minor typographical errors in printing my note. I pass them by with a single exception. I did not write 'There are too many book publishers,' but, There are too many books published."

E. P. DUTTON & Co. are now fully ready to supply the trade with their various lines of juveniles, ranging in prices from 25 cents to $1.75. The stock throughout is attractively gotten up. Their new art book, "Hearts-ease and Happy Days," promises to be a worthy companion volume to "Indian Summer," by the same author (L. Clarkson), and which was received so favorably.

WM. S. GOTTSBERGER has just issued "A Practical Method for Learning Spanish," by A. Ramos Diaz de Villegas. The volume comprises short stories and anecdotes in English, familiar phrases, and a vocabulary with their equivalents in Spanish, and a list of irregular verbs. He has also just published "Antinous," a romance of ancient Rome, by George Taylor, translated from the German, by Mary J. Safford.

TUTTLE & Co., Rutland, Vt., announce that their holiday novelty, "Santa Claus Souvenir," edited by Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr, will be ready for the trade next month. It will have a cover in nine colors, embossed in the best manner; the inside pages will be in two colors, and the entire souvenir will be cut out in a novel shape. We understand that Baker, Pratt & Co. have made arrangements for the New York agency.

ELDRIDGE & BROTHER, Phila., will issue in July Chase and Stuart's "First Latin Book," "Latin Grammar," "Latin Reader," and "Ovid, with Lexicon and Notes;" also "A Manual of Elocution and Reading," by Dr. Edward Brooks, of Millersville, Pa. In August they expect to publish "A Hand-book of Literature—English and American," by Prof. E. J.

Trimble, of Westchester, Pa., and "First Lessons in Physiology and Hygiene," by Dr. Charles K. Mills.

PORTER & COATES have added the following books to their well-known Alta series of 12mos: Arnault's "Life of Napoleon," "French Fairy Tales," by Countess de Segur; "Kangaroo Hunters," by Anne Bowman; "Bear Hunters of the Rocky Mountains," by Anne Bowman; "American Family Robinson," by D. W. Belisle; and "Adventures in Canada," by John C. Geike. This series now contains twenty-five handsomely bound volumes and embraces many of the most popular books. They have in press a new book by Harry Castlemon, entitled "Don Gordon's Shooting-Box."

On July 4th, the base-ball nine composed of employees of Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co. will visit New York and play a return game with the employees of A. W. Faber. Last year the Faber team visited Philadelphia, as the guests of the Philadelphia team, and were victorious by a score of 26 to 25. The game will be played on the Union Grounds, Brooklyn, and will begin at 11 A.M., sharp. The trade are cordially invited to be present on the occasion, which will be an enjoyable one, as the game will be sharply contested, and brilliant playing may be looked for from both sides. The visitors will be the guests of the home team, who will give them a royal reception.

T. B. PETERSON & BRO. announce a list of new, bright and clever novels, specially suitable for summer reading. There will be two new ones by Emile Zola, "The Mysteries of Mar-seilles," and La Curée (Renee), which is considered as his greatest effort; three by Henry Gre-ville, "Sylvia's Bethrothed," "Genevieve's Victory," and "Madame De Dreux;" also, "Paul Raymond," by E. W. Blaisdell; "A Woman's Peril; or, Driven from Home," a novel founded on fact, by Mrs. James C. Cook; "The Russian Princess," by Emanuel Gonzales, "The Annals of a Baby," how it was named, how it was nursed, etc., by Sarah Bridges Stebbins; "Mannon Lescant," an intense love story by the Abbé Prevost; and "A Young Girl's Romance," by Ernest Daudet.

HARPER & BROS. have in preparation "Beauty in the Household," by Mrs. T. W. Dewing; "A History of Ancient Art," by Dr. Franz von Reber, Director of the Bavarian Royal Galleries; "Knocking Round the Rockies," by Ernest Ingersoll; "Travels in South Kensington, with Notes on Decorative Art and Architecture in England," by Moncure D. Conway; and a "History of Wood-Engraving," by G. E. Woodberry. The next volume in the English Men of Letters series will probably be a monograph on Thomas Gray, by Mr. Edmund W. Gosse. Mr. Gosse is said to take up the history of Cambridge where it was dropped by Mr. Jebb in his scholarly study of Bentley; and he is likewise said to have had the good fortune to discover fresh facts bearing on the life of Gray.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have made arrangements with the directors of the Union League of Philadelphia to issue a "History of the Union League of Philadelphia." It will be prepared by an experienced writer thoroughly familiar with the ground covered, giving the origin, growth, and career of the famous institution which, starting at a critical period in the history of the nation, rose from a small experimental beginning to a commanding position that enabled it to overthrow disloyalty in the great manufacturing capital of the north, and to contribute materially to the success of the Union cause. It will be an octavo, published by subscription. They have just published a novel by a Southern author, entitled "The Little Brick Church," by Col. W. C. Falkner, and announce for immediate publication "Aphorisms," from the German of Marie F. Von Ebner Eschenbach, translated by Mrs. Wister; "Prescott Leaflets" for homes, libraries, and schools, compiled by Josephine E. Hadgdon, compiler of Longfellow and "Whittier Leaflets;" and "Iris," a novel by Mrs. Randolph.

ALEXANDER IRELAND, who made the business arrangements for Mr. Emerson's lecturing tour in England, has just published in London a memoir of Mr. Emerson, containing personal recollections and extracts from hitherto unpublished letters.

AMONG the forthcoming publications of the Librairie des Bibliophiles are "Rachel d'après sa Correspondance," by M. Georges d'Heylli, with four portraits of Rachel etched by Léopold Massard, and a reprint of Guillaume Tardif's "L'Art de Faulconnerie et des Chiens de Chasse (1492)."

D. FISHER UNWIN, 17 Holborn Viaduct, London, who has been connected with the house of Hodder & Stoughton for the past 18 years, has purchased the publishing business, including stock and copyrights, of Marshall, Japp & Co. Dr. A. H. Japp has found it necessary to retire from business on account of ill-health.

L. UPCOTT GILL, London, has recently issued a work of importance to bird fanciers, entitled "Notes on Cage Birds." It is made up of the contributions of various hands, under the editorship of Dr. W. T. Greene, and contains practical hints on the management of British and foreign cage birds, hybrids, and canaries.

W. SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co. have in preparation a volume by Rev. Hilderic Friend, entitled "Flower Lore." It will include much curious and interesting information relating to flowers and fairies, chapters on flowers at weddings and funerals, notes on rustic names of flowers, superstitions, myths, tales, traditions, etc.

THERE is announced as nearly ready a volume of reprinted articles contributed to the Daily Telegraph by "A Seafarer." The title will be "My Watch Below." It is not generally known, says the London correspondent of the N. Y. Times, "that the writer is Mr. Clarke Russell, author of 'The Wreck of the Grosvenor,' and other novels. Mr. Arnold introduced Mr. Russell to the Telegraph columns two years ago, and considers the novelist one of the cleverest of his 'young lions.'"

DAVID DOUGLAS, Edinburgh, has published a quaint book by Prof. John Stuart Blackie, entitled "Altavona: Facts and Fiction from my Life in the Highlands." It is written after the manner of the "Noctes Ambrosianæ," on the things which are most interesting in the life of the Scotch Highlanders. Nearly everything comes up for discussion, not more the natural scenery than the historical traditions of the country. The whole of the book is fact, and only the framework is fiction.

Rooms 7 to 11.

BOSTON, APRIL 7, 1882.

To the Trade of the Pacific Coast:

We have arranged with Mr. Samuel Carson to take orders for our stock on the Pacific Coast, and for the convenience of dealers who may wish to enter into direct communication with us, have placed a full line of samples of our publications at No. 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, where also may be found early copies of forthcoming books.

We shall be glad if the trade will avail themselves of this opportunity to examine our books, and favor us with their orders.

We have in preparation an attractive list for the Fall, including a companion volume to the elegantly illustrated "Lucile," published last year. No pains or expense will be spared to make this the handsomest book of the year. Due notice will be given of the title, style of binding and price, and we shall hope to receive early and liberal orders from our friends on the Pacific Coast.

Respectfully Yours,

JUST PUBLISHED:

A MERE CAPRICE. By MARY HEALY.
 Square 16mo. Price, $1.25.

This little story by Mary Healy, the daughter of the famous American painter, G. P. A. Healy, has the piquant attractiveness of being an American girl's study of Parisian life. The society with which she deals is mainly that of the wealthy and fashionable classes, though a few characters are introduced from the bourgeoisie and from the working people. The style is sparkling and vivacious, the plot is handled cleverly, and there are a number of intense and exciting situations. There are, too, pictures of social and artist life in Paris which are evidently the result of more than superficial study.

THE

Publishers' Trade-List Annual

For 1882 (Tenth Year)

WILL BE A LARGE OCTAVO OF ABOUT 2000 PAGES, CONTAINING, AS USUAL:

The Publishers' Trade-Lists for 1882. These are the latest Catalogues of American Publishers, arranged alphabetically by the names of the publishers.

The Educational Catalogue for 1882 (thirteenth year). This Catalogue, which is used by the entire trade and educational interest as the most complete and reliable reference-list of School-Books, is prepared on the same plan as last year, viz.: (1) arrangement on the "dictionary plan," combining a Finding-List for the trade and a Subject Catalogue for the use of schools; (2) Trade-list or wholesale price, and mailing or retail price, in parallel columns.

THE ADDITIONAL REFERENCE FEATURES, THIS YEAR, WILL BE

Annotated List of the Books of the Year. A complete reprint of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY full title Records (inclusive of all the descriptive notes) from July 2, 1881, to June 30, 1882.

Complete Index to the Books of the Year. In order to facilitate reference to the above list, it will be accompanied by a full index by which every book on record can be found, whether it is looked for under author, title, or subject. Numerous cross-references will also be added to facilitate the finding of books on similar subjects.

The substitution of the above lists, in place of the former short title reference lists, cannot but prove profitable both to publishers and booksellers. For every reference will place the bookseller or consulting bookbuyer in immediate possession not only of the full title, inclusive of the full name of the publisher, place of publication, size, number of pages, binding, etc., but in most cases also of the data relating to the character or contents of the book. In fact, all this information being within easy reach, and actually being forced upon any one who is consulting the list, this plan will materially add to the knowledge of books, particularly among those who directly deal with the public. On the other hand, the bookbuyer receiving much more satisfactory information than could be given from the former short title reference lists, is surer to make his purchase than when, as is so often the case, his mind is left in doubt, for want of data. The original record of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY being thus made permanently accessible, an annual catalogue is presented to the trade, the practical value of which can scarcely be over-estimated.

The above Lists, all requiring unusual labor and expense, present in their combination so perfect a working tool as has never been presented to the trade of any other country. It may be justly claimed that these special trade helps alone will make the ANNUAL indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

TERMS.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net. The price of the volume will be raised after close of subscription.

No single subscriptions (unless by special agreement) can be taken into account that have not been paid up, as the small amounts will neither bear the trouble nor the expense or risk of numerous accounts, bills, statements, and subsequent collections.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1).

Remittances should be made by money order on New York, or registered letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be dispatched by express unpaid.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE

For 1882 [Thirteenth Year].

COMPILED BY G. D. T. ROUSE.

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting orders and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuance is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined.

No other list in the market gives this practical combination. And no other catalogue has ever been made approximately so complete as this. Last year's edition contained twice as many books as, or nearly 2500 more books, than either of the other lists that were offered to the trade.

The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's catalogue.

Publishers' prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net" (in second column); where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk. A carefully drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

It should be understood that, of the regular retail-price publishers, only the retail price is given, and the net prices only of those publishers who make it a practice to mail net-price lists to schools—in fact, make their net prices their regular school-supply prices. This point is emphasized in order to meet the objections raised to the quotation of net prices.

It should be well considered that any attempt at withholding, from the educational public, what the publisher, through his agents, advertisements, lists, and circulars, takes special pains to make known, must be an unwise policy. It is not objectionable, but quite proper and legitimate, to charge the retail or mailing price for single copies of any book; but the educational catalogue is not generally given away to single-book customers. It is intended only for those who purchase or schools in quantities. Now any one putting himself on record by quoting fictitious prices, or prices other than those quoted by the publisher (which prices, it is now understood, are generally still subject to a trade discount), necessarily must drive his school trade into the hands of those who solicit their orders from a catalogue, the prices of which tally with that of the publishers.

The following paragraph from last year's Educational Catalogue further elucidates the reasons for our strict adherence to publishers' prices: "Plainly, if it wished to sustain its official character, it was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade."

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5; per 1000, $40.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5, or $1 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.*

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1, postpaid.
